China, U.S. to Confer

WASHINGTON (AP).—The United States and Red China will send ambassadors to Geneva next Monday to discuss "repatriation of civilians" who want to return to their own countries and "certain other practical matters now at issue."

The state department said Alexis Johnson, ambassador to Czechoslovakia, would represent the United States. Johnson is to fly to Washington for consultations with State Secretary Dulles before the talks begin.

Press officer Henry Sydam of the state department reported Indian and Burma had arranged for the meeting in backstage discussions with Red China and the United States.

The "major purpose" of the Geneva meeting from the American view, Sydam said, will be to obtain the release of some 51 Americans held in Red China, including 15 American fliers.

The department in a separate announcement emphasized that holding the talks at the ambassadorial level does not in any way "involve diplomatic recognition" of Red China.

200,000 Acres in Ontario Blackened As Aerial Armada Directs Fight

CP and BUP Dispatches (TORONTO (CP)).—Massive fires ate into Northern Ontario's sun-baked forests today, so fiercely that the 6,000 men and a 60-plane aerial armada were likened to "terriers chewing away at an elephant."

More than 200,000 acres of timber—pine, balsam, spruce and maple—have been reduced to blackened stumps. At least 154 fires were burning, forty-eight of them out of control.

A lands and forest department spokesman said enough hose was being used against the woodlands fires to stretch from Toronto to Montreal and back, a distance of some 720 miles.

Several areas have been without rain for weeks. Most of the fresh fires were blamed either on lightning or careless smokers.

Forestry officials say the fire menace is without parallel in Ontario history.

One of the worst blazes is knifing unchecked through forestland 50 miles north of Blind River, back in from the rocky shore of Lake Huron. It has covered an area of nearly 65,000 acres.

ON DUTY FOR WEEKS The firefighters have remained at the front for many days; some for weeks.

Rain is needed but none is in sight. The lands department is thinking of turning to rain-making devices in a fresh bid to douse the flames.

Seeding of clouds with silver iodide to bring about rain, was successful at Baie Comeau, Que., recently.

But rain doesn't always help. Lightning often accompanies the downfall. This means more fires.

B.C. Union Workers Uphold Pay Bargain, Return $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP).—Workers in eight city upholstery firms have voted to return to the companies about $3,000 in a retroactive pay boost which their union claims is illegal.

Dan Radford, regional director of the Canadian Congress of Labor said members of Vancouver Upholsterers' Union (CCL) had voted to return the pay cheques "to uphold union bargaining."

The union charges that four of the eight firms violated the Labor Relations Act by conducting a vote on contract terms which were approved by the workers.

Radford said the upholstery workers have now turned down a five-cent hourly wage boost, which they accepted previously, because the ballot was not sanctioned by the union.

Though the vote on the five-cent increase was taken in only four firms, the hike was made applicable to four others and was retroactive to May 1.

Meanwhile, the union has asked for a government-supervised strike vote.

No Secret Deals Says Ike

Congress Leaders Get Geneva Report

WASHINGTON (AP).—President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles reported to congressional leaders on the Big Four conference today and declared no secret agreements were made at Geneva.

Congressional leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties attended the 90-minute briefing session.

Sam Rayburn (Dem.-Tex.), Speaker of the House of Representatives, and William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.), Senate Republican leader, afterward quoted Eisenhower as saying he gave "no secret agreements" of any kind at the conference.

Knowland added: "The situation growing out of the conference is hopeful but the problems ahead are not discounted."

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, said the president told congressional leaders he is confident future negotiations with the Russians will proceed in a "wholly different atmosphere" than they have in the past.

However, Eisenhower told congressional members he does not believe the Russians will accept his proposal for an exchange of military blueprints and free air inspection rights between the U.S. and Soviet Union. (See Also Page 3).

Cuthbert First Probe Witness

Police Inquiry Resumes Thursday

VANCOUVER (CP).—The royal commission investigating charges of corruption in Vancouver's police force will resume its hearings Thursday at 11 a.m. after a two-week adjournment.

R. H. Tupper, QC, of Vancouver one-man royal commission, said the first witness would be Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert, whose attempted suicide a month ago touched off the commission inquiry. Mr. Tupper indicated he could not forecast what testimony, if any, Cuthbert would be prepared to offer.

(A British United Press report today said Det. Sgt. Cuthbert cannot be forced to testify at the inquiry and might not say more than to give his name, address, age and length of time in police service.)

The commission adjourned its hearings July 14 to allow the former head of the gambling squad to recover from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Cuthbert was pronounced fit to testify by physicians and psychiatrists early last week.

Two Gunman Captured In Holdup Try

VANCOUVER (CP).—A gunman and his companion were captured by police at 9 a.m. today shortly after a fighting cafeteria employee foiled the bandits' attempt to rob him of $5,000.

The men were cornered in the downtown office of B.C. Telephone Co. where they fled after attacking Henry Federson in his car, parked a short distance away in a lane. An alarm was raised by a passing alman, RCAF Cpl. Larry Prevost.

Federson, taken to hospital after a beating by one of his attackers, told police he was transporting $5,000 for his employer, the White Lunch.

He said one of the pair told his companion "shoot him" before they fled on foot with police constable Ernest Inglis hot on their heels.

Car-Bus Crash Kills City Man

6 FATAL B.C. MISHAPS; 50 IN EASTERN CANADA

From BUP and CP Dispatches A 14-year-old boy who hanged himself from his bunk bed—apparently accidentally—was among six persons who died in week-end mishaps in British Columbia.

William David Howard of Burnaby was found hanging by his seven-year-old sister.

Four persons drowned, two of them in the Interior. Eighteen-year-old Harry Maudrell of Vancouver drowned in Timothy Lake in the Cariboo district and an Edmonton man, Joe Griffin, in Lake Windermere.

Wallace G. Anderson, 56, of North Vancouver, was found floating face down in a pool at Lynn Canyon Park in North Vancouver. Seven-year-old Patrick Starrs of Vancouver drowned at Crescent Beach Saturday.

Four multiple accidents—three traffic and a fire—took 19 lives this week-end as eastern Canada's count of violent deaths rose to 50. Quebec accounted for 30 of them.

Retired Painter Dies Instantly; Wife Badly Hurt

A retired painter was killed instantly and his wife seriously injured when their car was demolished in a car-bus accident at Burnside and the new Island Highway, Sunday at about 2 p.m.

Victim was Abraham Rosenthal, about 67, of The Radnor Apartments, 1811 Oak Bay.

Mrs. Ida Rosenthal, 63, is in "satisfactory" condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She suffered shock, chest injuries and possible internal injuries in the grinding crash.

Inquest into the death of Mr. Rosenthal will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at McCall Bros. funeral home.

SEVENTH THIS YEAR

His death was the seventh traffic fatality recorded in Greater Victoria area this year and the third on the new highway outlet.

Driver of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. "Islander" bus was Wilfred Cowan, 2627 Blanshard.

Saanich police said Mr. Rosenthal was killed.

REPORT ON RUSSIA TODAY

By RETA MYERS

Clock With Dropping Pearls Marks Tour of Art Treasures

The Soviet Union has two offshoots whose reign ended in a bloody orgy and death for most of the family in 1917. Dimitri must then have been 16, old enough to have enjoyed those last fabulous days in the most elaborate court in Europe. I have quite a report for him.

The news last Thursday carried an item that restrictions of entry to the heavily guarded Kremlin, now seat of the Soviet government, have been eased.

But on June 30 when we visited this fortress (this is the translation of Kremlin) the public were still milling around outside. Only privileged foreigners and working people on excursions appeared allowed to roam through the buildings, and then only accompanied by a Kremlin guide.

The count is running about 3,000 a day and last year the first time it was opened to the public, half a million people passed through its gates.

Earlier that morning I had been outside the Kremlin walls, taking pictures of the glittering gold onion-like towers from its front of the British Embassy. It was here I had the first encounter with the "workers," mostly women who were repairing the road in front of the embassy. Far from running away from me, they chatted excitedly making known the fact that they wanted their pictures taken.

In all contacts with the Russian people, I found them childlike, in their curiosity and interest, and most unselfconscious in their contacts with us. They seemed to make friends, and I am certain that the edict had gone out to all the people that all foreigners were not state enemies.

Adenauer Speeds Plans For Moscow Conference

MUERREN, Switzerland (UP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today he will go to Moscow to confer with Soviet leaders some time before the October meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

Adenauer said he felt it would be "impolite to wait" until after the foreign ministers' meeting.

The Soviets invited Adenauer several weeks ago to visit Moscow to discuss establishment of normal relations with Russia.

The chancellor postponed a decision on the trip until after certain related questions had been answered in conferences between the West German and Soviet ambassadors in Paris.

Adenauer also announced earlier that he would not make the Moscow trip until after the Big Four's summit meeting.

Adenauer asked, through the Paris embassy, that the Soviets promise to announce, during his visit, the release of several thousands of German war prisoners and civilians still held in Russia, recognition that Germany would not break its ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the West and an understanding that the negotiations would not imply recognition of the Oder-Nisse line, which gave part of Poland's eastern territory to Poland, as a permanent German frontier.

The chancellor, who announced his plans for visiting Moscow to a press conference at this vacation retreat, also expressed his satisfaction with the success of the Geneva summit conference.

Germans Must Share Talks, Say Soviets

BERLIN (UP)—Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev told Soviet Zone officials in a speech released today that the German problem can be solved only if the Germans themselves take part in deliberations on the matter.

Khrushchev, in a brief speech made Sunday night at an East German reception in honor of himself and Premier Nikolai Bulganin, said Germans are experienced enough to settle their own affairs.

Bulganin and Khrushchev stopped off in Berlin for "several days" of talks with East German Communist leaders; Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M.

Molotov and other members of the summit delegation flew on to Moscow.

Statements by Bulganin and Khrushchev made it clear that German reunification must await conclusion of a European security pact as proposed by the Soviets—a viewpoint that temporarily deadlocked the Geneva conference.

Khrushchev's statement was a strong indication the Soviets would press for East and West German representation at the Big Four foreign ministers talks in Geneva in October.

His remarks were sure to be well received in East Germany since the Communists have long advocated East-West German talks to bring about unity. The West German government has rejected these proposals on grounds the Eastern Zone government does not represent the people.

Bulganin, in a brief speech at Schoenefeld airfield, repeated the Soviet viewpoint expressed at Geneva and said "there is no doubt" the Soviet government "will follow this line steadfastly" in future discussions of the German question.

EDEN PRAISES IKE'S EFFORTS

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden returned today full of praise for President Eisenhower's positive contribution to the Big Four conference.

Sir Anthony frankly admitted that Mr. Eisenhower was "in a large measure" responsible for the lessening of tension in Geneva.

'THERE AIN'T GONNA BE ANY WAR'

Macmillan's Quip No Repeat

LONDON (UP)—A reporter attending the regular Foreign Office press conference today asked for definition of the difference between the phrases "there ain't gonna be any war" and "peace in our time."

When Chamberlain returned from his Munich conference with Hitler just before the Second World War, he said he had achieved "peace in our time."

When Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan returned from the

Europe Press Rings Acclaim Of Big Four

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe took a Monday morning look at the Big Four "summit" conference, and pronounced it a success.

"It has made the risk of war more remote, has cleared some obstructions from the road to an agreement on Europe's future, and has given the West a clue to Russian intentions; these are valuable gains," says the Manchester Guardian.

Reaction has ranged from such flat statements as "the Big Four have put an end to the cold war" in Paris' Socialist paper Le Populaire to the cautious editorial words of the London Daily Telegraph:

"So long as the West does not allow the resulting relaxation of tension to lead to a relaxing of vigilance, Geneva should promote cool, realistic and long-range thinking."

EISENHOWER DOMINANT

One man emerged from the conference as the dominant figure in the eyes of European observers—President Eisenhower.

"The big victor of this meeting was President Eisenhower," says Paris' independent paper L'Aurore. "He seduced even his political adversaries in America and has probably won the renewal of his lease at the White House."

Twice, says London's News Chronicle, Eisenhower "hoisted the meeting to the true summit. Not a thousand speeches in Congress or the House of Commons, not a hundred inter-governmental notes, could have done what one man did, who could be seen and heard as he spoke."

The London Daily Express notes that Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party, has told its readers that the cold war is ended. The Beaverbrook paper adds: "Let the flags fly. Let the bands play. Let the cheers be heard. When Pravda says it, Russia means it."

West German papers are cautious. Volksblatt of Wuerzburg says Russia "found no weak spots in the Western side, but unity instead. The Kremlin knows that it will not obtain a European security system based on the partition of Germany."

After the Summit

THE TANGIBLE RESULTS OF the Geneva conference seem to be small. No settlement of any great problem has been achieved. Everything of importance—German unification, European security and disarmament—have been referred to study groups because agreement was impossible. But it is unlikely that any government at Geneva expected more.

The intangible results, on the other hand, may prove momentous. The real achievement at Geneva was the fact that the two worlds could meet peacefully at the summit and demonstrate to each other that they both wanted peace. The conference proved that the West regards atomic war as permanently unthinkable and that Russia regards it as impractical, at least in the visible future.

If, as appears probable, the Russians are convinced that the West wants only peace, and has no designs on the communist states, that of itself will mark Geneva as the most decisive turning point since the world struggle began.

On that conviction it should be possible to negotiate the specific problems separating the two worlds but successful negotiation obviously will take a long time. Retreat from the present quagmire of human affairs may be as slow as the tragic advance of the last ten years.

The nubbin of this issue, as plainly revealed at Geneva, is the future of Germany, and the nubbin of the German problem is Russia's fear of its old enemy.

Hence Russia's first gambit at the conference was an attempt to detach Germany from its ties with the West by the simple, almost naive proposal that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization be liquidated forthwith.

In return, Russia promised to liquidate its eastern European defence system. Russia, with its huge armed forces close at hand, would remain strong while the NATO partners disarmed and American power was withdrawn across the Atlantic.

Naturally this one-sided bargain was rejected, as Russia undoubtedly anticipated. Russia then rejected the unification of Germany on any acceptable terms for reasons that did not appear on the agenda.

The real reasons are plain enough, however.

Russia knows that in the end the future of Germany will be settled by the Germans, that the final settlement must be negotiated between the German and Russian Governments, since Russia alone controls the eastern half of the country and, moreover, the eastern marches detached from Germany and given to Poland after the last war. And presumably Russia is waiting to negotiate with a German leader much more pliable and less wedded to the west than Chancellor Adenauer.

Under these conditions of deadlock no immediate agreement emerged and no clear avenue toward ultimate agreement. Nevertheless, the new atmosphere in international affairs, the eagerness of both sides for at least some safer form of co-existence, is of itself a gigantic change for the better and will incalculably influence the ensuing course of events.

Perhaps the most striking development at Geneva, unforeseen even by his own people, was President Eisenhower's offer to expose the whole defence apparatus of the United States to Russian inspection, if Russia would reciprocate.

Mr. Eisenhower doubtless expected the Russians to refuse his offer but his purpose has been accomplished. He has demonstrated to the doubtful peoples of the world that the United States is willing to run all the risks of peaceful disarmament and that Russia remains the real obstacle to these hopes. In the struggle of ideas, behind the struggle of armed force, the President's proposal should have profound effects.

Meanwhile the world knows that the West, though seeking agreement on all points of friction and willing to settle on generous terms, will continue to negotiate from strength.

Explanation Required

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has given Parliament figures on two rental deals in Vancouver and in Whalley but more than figures are needed to satisfy the public.

In the Vancouver case the government is paying a rental of $53,800 over a period of six years and 10 months for a property which cost $22,296 to build. This building is owned by Mr. Rowe Holland and Mr. William C. Couper, who are known to be strong and active supporters of the Liberal party.

On the face of it, this arrangement seems improvident but there may be a satisfactory explanation. What is the explanation? Why are the taxpayers required to repay in less than seven years the total cost of a building which should be in good repair long after the rent has been collected? The Government's figures raise that question and it should be answered.

Speaking in the Commons a few days ago, Mr. Howard Green, a veteran Vancouver Conservative, charged that Liberal party supporters can make real estate deals with the Government "profitable to themselves and to the detriment of the country." This charge the Government instantly denied. Mr. Green now has the figures on one deal which, at first sight, will certainly strike the taxpayers as extraordinary.

Mr. George Hahn, Social Credit member for New Westminster, has secured figures on another deal. He is informed by the Government that a rental of $41,748 is being paid over a seven-year period for a building in Whalley which is assessed at $20,340. The landlord thus will receive about twice the assessed value of the building in seven years.

This case, too, requires explanation. As The Vancouver Province says, the issue here "is not the rental of one building but of the whole morality and attitude of a government toward such transactions."

The Cost of Overhead

ON TAKING OFFICE THE BENNETT Government attempted to improve the administration of public business. The civil service was reduced in numbers, an expensive hospital insurance staff curtailed and, as the Government stated, overhead costs generally reduced. For such reforms the Government is entitled to full credit.

Unfortunately the Government's first impetus seems to have worn out. The civil service is increasing again and is now believed to have reached a new peak.

Questioned on this matter, the Government refuses to give the public the present figures. Why the public is not entitled to know how many people it employs is difficult to understand, when the public is paying the bill. Why should Mr. Bennett try to hide these simple facts?

All the newspapers can find out, when they make perfectly proper inquiries, is that the civil service now includes something over 8,500 persons. If so, it is much larger than it ever was before. All the economies made in the Government's early days have been outweighed by recent increases in overhead costs.

There may be reasons for these increases in a growing province but no reason to keep them dark—and evidently no further reason for the Government to claim that it is operating far more cheaply than its predecessors.

Frustration in Indian Matters

MR. T. R. KELLY HAS Resigned from the post of secretary to British Columbia's continuing committee on Indian affairs. He has left the service because he feels frustrated.

And he feels frustrated because he has found the minister to whom he is responsible, Mr. Lyle Wicks, apparently without sympathetic understanding of the program he considers necessary to integrate the native into today's society.

Mr. Kelly has held his post since the committee was established, attempting to function as a sort of executive officer. His appointment by the Coalition Government was based on characteristics particularly suitable for the job.

He is an Indian, proud of the tradition of the Haida people and a person of intelligence and education who attained high proficiency as a public school teacher. Beyond that he has equipped himself with a wide knowledge of Indian affairs.

In such matters there is room, of course, for a difference of opinion. Mr. Wicks is entitled to express his point of view. But when he does, if he does, he might explain what he has been able to do, either through the committee or through sponsorship in cabinet circles, to advance the promising program for the Indians started under the Coalition Government when it gave the natives the vote.

Chips

BY DAVE BROCK

AFTER what might have been several nasty and expensive misadventures with our new boat, we decided to get the thing insured. The policy arrived this morning, and along with it came a bill for the premium. Merely babbling, I said "Hi, shall we pay this here premium?" To which my wife replied "No, let's wait and see if the insurance works."

Incidentally, we had three examples of fool's luck in the matter of boating. A friend of ours said "My, you people must lead the right lives to have to pay this here premium." "Yes," said my wife, "it must be all that home-made bread we eat."

AND by the way again, it is all very well to say that children are hostages to fortune... so they are. How a parent manages to sleep at night or smile by day is more than I can guess.

But in their own way, boats are worse. Never saw the like. You don't have to keep children securely tied up, or drag them up well above extreme high water, or keep painting them and patching them and insuring them and watching bits of them breaking off or getting stolen. Nor do you have to keep spending your last dollar and all your free time on them. Boats are awful. As a Vancouver yachtsman said years ago, it isn't true that yachting is for rich men only. Yachting merely takes all your money, whether you are rich or poor. There is a sliding scale, so that all you need spend is your total resources.

SEE that Mr. David Cox, West Bromwich in England, is now 81, and for the last 28 years he has been sitting admiring a set of false teeth he made for himself. These teeth were made from the aluminum rim of an old bicycle wheel. They are now only his spare set... a spare wheel, so to speak. But he still has them.

Well, I don't like the sound of the whole business. No good can come of it. For one thing, it tempts people to say his bark is worse than his bite, and things like that. People probably ask him why he didn't make teeth from a motor car... a Gnash.

I have never thought jokes about false teeth were in very good taste. Half of us are rather sensitive about such things, and the rest of us are going to be. All the same, I admit I have laughed about them from time to time. As when an English farm laborer made himself a set of 58 teeth... and not tiny pearls, either, but enormous sheep's teeth, so that when he smiled he looked like President Taft and a half.

I also laughed when a rugby-playing friend of mine forgot to remove his dentures into the hip pocket of his shorts, and it wasn't long before he gave himself a severe bite on the sitty-down. I don't know if such an accident is insurable or not... I'll ask my agent when I pay him for the boat... I might as well be covered for everything.

HOLEY, HOLEY, HOLEY

IT IS remarkable how many healthy things are all full of holes. Health-shirts and health-underclothes and health-blankets, and many forms of Swedish health-bread and so on. And for this reason, when I told a pal of mine that she had holes in her head, she was able to reply "Sure. I've got health-brains."

DIALOGUE

IT IS years since I have quoted my far too talkative budgerigar to you, so maybe you can stand two lines of dialogue. Most people like having a bird that talks, anyhow, or even listening to somebody else's bird. I hate it. When I am alone in the house with that manic of a bird, I shut him in another room. And if he still talks, I go in and squirt water on him. And before I am arrested by the SPCA or other anti-Brock groups, let me say the bird likes being squirted with water. It simply stops his talking for a while. I hate it when he mumbles so that I can't hear him properly, and I hate it worse when he talks sense and does it clearly. It frightens me.

However, he only made me laugh this morning. As I believe I have told you, he usually thinks he is two birds and conducts both sides of a dialogue. One of his two imaginary birds said "My name's David Brock, what will I call you?" To which the other replied, "You'd better wait and read the instructions." When you hear stuff like that, you don't think the bird's gone nuts. You think you've gone nuts yourself.

I HAVE a friend who says she can hardly wait till she is senile or worse. She says she will meet such interesting and wholly imaginary people. Little does she realize that what she knows of me is also imaginary.

MARKED for READING TEMPERAMENT

Bagpipes are temperamental things, like a woman. Neglect them for a wee while and no amount of 'outering' or buttering will make them see reason.

Ike—Triumphantly Natural

BY STEWART ALSOP From GENEVA

AT THE Big Four conference, President Eisenhower impressed and occasionally irritated the British, impressed and astonished the French, and deeply impressed and obviously mystified the Russians. Altogether, it was a remarkable performance, and very greatly in the national interest.

From beginning to end, the President simply and triumphantly acted himself. When he is being himself, the President is a natural, but decidedly unconventional diplomat which accounts in part for the occasional irritation of the professional British.

At one point, for example, Soviet Premier Bulganin proposed that the question of German rearmament and European security be considered independently of each other. This was, of course, flatly contrary to the agreed Western position. But Eisenhower replied, that, in the pursuit of peace, nothing should be dependent on anything else.

RUSSIAN REACTION

The British, logically, if perhaps somewhat stuffily, interpreted the President's remark as supporting Bulganin's position, while the French muttered in amazement. Actually, of course, the remark was a typical Eisenhowerism, and simply the President's way of expressing his earnestness in the pursuit of peace. But what is really interesting is the Russian reaction to this sort of Eisenhowerism.

In this case, for example, the Russians just looked bemused, and none of them thought to take advantage of the remark. Repeatedly there has been evidence that the President's unconventional diplomacy has both bewildered and impressed the Soviet delegation.

Every member of the Russian delegation quite obviously arrived here with instructions to "be nice to everybody, but concentrate everything on capturing Eisenhower." They were clearly caught off base when the President, instead of waiting quietly to be captured, concentrated his own considerable personal powers on capturing them.

The program started when the President sent his aides scurrying about for a present for Marshal Zhukov's daughter. It continued with such episodes as that described above, which even the Russians could hardly attribute to a secret war plotter. It reached its climax, perhaps, with the President's earnest statement that he had talked to every member of the Soviet delegation, and that he was convinced they were all as sincere in desiring peace as he was.

COLOR OF HONESTY

After this sort of thing, the President's remarkable offer of mutual aerial inspection, which might before have been easily dismissed as mere propaganda, took on a color of reality and honesty.

It would be both easy and dangerous, of course, to suppose that the Russians have all fallen victim to the fatal Presidential charm, and that they are returning to Moscow determined to act henceforth like well-brought-up democratic liberals. The mixture of charm and diplomacy can be dangerous, as recent history suggests. Yet the Russians (with the possible exception of the mechanical Mr. Molotov) are human beings too—a cliché which becomes startlingly real when you see them at close quarters.

Russians have also always had a special respect for a certain grandeur, especially when it is surrounded by the aroma of great powers. The President has the grandeur and the power, and a curious brand of earnestness as well, which makes him a man remarkably difficult to disbelieve.

SEED OF DOUBT

Perhaps Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev are returning to Moscow with at least a seed of private doubt that the President is really the creature of profit-hungry Wall Street warmongers, with no will of his own.

But even if they harbor no such doubts, the President has scored a signal victory here at Geneva. Simply by being himself, he has smashed into smithereens the deeply-rooted image of America as inflexible and bent on war. This is achievement enough for one week. Copyright, 1955, N.Y. Increase University Grants

Toronto Globe and Mail

WHILE there was undoubtedly a sly political motive in Finance Minister Harris' reference of his department's estimates to the Estimates Committee of the House of Commons, there are some worthwhile matters to be considered. Not the least of these is the university grants system. At present, an unconditional grant is made to each province on the basis of fifty cents per capita, to be distributed among recognized degree-granting institutions of higher learning, in proportion to their enrollment of intramural students in attendance.

It would be desirable if the committee were to look into this grant. We believe the members would agree that in terms of the universities' need, the grant is insufficient. Not one of the universities is without a building problem. Every source of increased revenue has been tapped, including students' fees, which are higher than they should be. Many fields in which the universities ought to be active have had to remain untouched. In no respect is this more true than in pure research.

The Government benefits very greatly from the universities, not only in the intellectual leadership which they provide, but even in the fact that many university people have higher incomes which produce larger tax revenues for the Government. To obtain the best returns for society, there should be no stint in the support of our institutions of higher learning. If the Government were to increase the grants for general support and for research, funds now being diverted to these matters would be released for the universities to use in improving the academic program and enlarging the scope of their work. The rapid growth of population makes completely new universities an urgent necessity. Without certainty of regular support, how can they be established?

The most practical method of assisting the universities is for Ottawa to carry more, if not most, of the burden of research. It is not as if the money were not available. Much is made each year of Health Minister Martin's health grants to the provinces. Because the provinces have to match these grants, about half of them are not spent each year. It might be more effective in the long run if a smaller total were put in the health grants, and the balance added to the university grants. The available cash would then be spent each year to the best advantage. We commend this suggestion to the Estimates Committee.

IRISH TEMPER

D. C. O'Connell's criticism of Mrs. Arsen's article on fluoridization of our drinking water, smatters of Machiavelian doctrine.

Why should one be obliged to drink what is not necessary for good health, and is not needed for children in all their drinking water?

Of the philosophy of Social Credit, D. C. O'Connell does not understand the first principle. It is not right that we should let our Irish tempers get the best of us.

Mr. M. J. Hayes, how dare he, might have nervous prostration after such a castigation from a priest.

As I have been a member of the Anglican church for 38 years and a member of the Social Credit 30 years, and know whereof I speak on these subjects, I would like to drop a word in Mr. O'Connell's ear.

'RODEO-TYPES' AGAIN?

Recent press reports indicate that the Victoria Shrine Club is sponsoring a Horse Show which will include "Rodeo-type" events.

In the minds of a great many people in this area the word "rodeo" is synonymous with the abuse of animals and even the palliative of charitable causes fails to popularize such events here.

Last year rodeos were staged at Duncan and Victoria. Both resulted in heavy deficits. It would seem that the worthy charities concerned are being sacrificed to satisfy the equine preferences of certain office-holders.

WHO DOES HE THINK HE IS?

The letter written by O'Connell of Cordova Bay prompts me to write "How dare he!" Especially an immigrant! Who does he think he is, anyway?

Years ago I came to this glorious country of Canada for the same purpose O'Connell came, and I am thankful to Canada for the success and prosperity granted me; through hard work and the opportunity that only Canada can offer an immigrant from England.

What nonsense, to state Canada is 40 years behind England, politically. I would like to refer the writer to the political chaos that followed the policies of the Laborites not so long ago in England.

If I had to make a choice between my native land (England) and Canada, my choice would be Canada—the land that has given me my freedom, my happiness, my opportunity of success, and my own home—such as I never knew in England.

Thank heavens, the immigrants such as O'Connell are in the minority. He should be thankful he is in a land of democracy, and has the freedom to write as insultingly as he wrote.

RELIGION AND SCHOOLS

Roman Catholic education is based upon authority and the discipline necessary to carry out that authority. This is accomplished by the teaching of faith in one's immediate superior.

That briefly is the system of education instituted by Loyola and the "professed" inner circle of Jesuits, of whose work the rank and file of the Roman Catholic Church know little or nothing. This system has for its object the commercial and political domination of the whole world, and all the facts of history or religion are by no means taught.

The Protestant system of education teaches us to have faith only in God, and not in self-appointed human beings who would usurp His Authority. The Protestant faith allows all men to be democratically just, and allows absolute freedom in education and in religion.

ONE MINISTER TO ANOTHER

The reader of this column will be familiar by now with the pattern of affairs presented by Rev. D. C. O'Connell of Cordova Bay.

At one time it was criticism of the handling of the library issue, later an effort to assist Elgin Neish in retaining Legion membership and now an appeal to B.C. voters.

These interests seem to be out of line especially in view of what Rev. O'Connell expressed in his last letter. He stated that he was "accustomed to the general system where a carpenter is a carpenter and a plumber is a plumber." He might apply the same rule to the ministry and confine his remarks to matters where he can speak with authority.

Those of us who have been born in this country and are familiar with issues involved in the government of the nation see no necessity of advice from "a comparative newcomer to Canada."

As a minister myself I feel that any minister could find more beneficial contributions to make than the views expressed in his recent letter.

Defeat

THEIR place is several miles from the highway. It lies at the end of a side road off a side road, and the last half-mile is just a deeply rutted track.

You're not likely to find them in the house. They'll be in the fields or barn.

The barn is lovely now, though it wasn't much when they bought the place 10 years ago.

They've jacked up the lean-to end, and put blocks of concrete instead of rotting cedar posts. They've hauled out the urine-soaked floor, and replaced it with a concrete one. The stanchions for the cows are firm and new. There's water running fresh and clear when they need it. The hay loft is filled with hay right up to the rafters.

The milk house is clean and white and beautifully cool even on the hottest day. The roothouse holds enough to keep cows fed all through the winter.

The fences which were broken and sagging are now firm and strong with never a leaning or shaky post.

He's done it all himself, this stocky, red-faced fellow with the build and look of Neanderthal Man, and a vocabulary that makes your hair stand right on end.

He's working like one possessed because he had nothing but a rundown farm when he started out. Each year it gets a little better, and each year he puts everything he can back into the land. It's taking his life blood bit by bit, and even on him, the strain is beginning to tell. He works continuously from habit, driven by something which seems stronger than himself. His eyes are sunken, his speech is rough and slow and tired. There's not an ounce of extra flesh on him.

His wife is thin, too. Her skin is white and the blue veins show at her temples. Her dress is the cheapest of catalogue supplies. Her feet, thrust into scuffed and broken shoes, are bare and dirty. She has neither the time nor desire to shave her legs, brush her hair or pretty herself up a bit.

And it's a shame, for 10 years ago she must have been a pretty girl. But now she's tired. Too tired to care. And bitter. You can hear the bitterness in her voice and see the fatigue in the hopeless droop of her weary shoulders.

She looks at the barn with hatred. "Cripes," she says. "All that money on a barn. And the house not fit for pigs to live in."

"See that harvester," she says. "Twelve hundred bucks for that second-hand. And I haven't a decent dress to go to town in. Cripes, it makes ya sick."

The steps of the back porch are rickety and rotten. The railing's gone. The kitchen is hot and dark and small, and, by the wood-and-coal range, the V-joint walls and ceiling are black and shabby.

The dark floor of the living room has a film of dust on it all summer long, and the sagging chesterfield is stained with sweaty, dirty overalls.

"Cripes," she says. "Just look at that. But I can't do the house and all that canning and work out in the barn. I tried it for awhile, but I got sick. Mind you, he never noticed I was sick. But let a cow go off its feed, and he'll sit up half the night with it."

But the strange part is that, beneath the grime, her hands are beautiful, really beautiful. And the face, for all its weary bitterness, has a waxy cameo quality.

Once a visitor, sitting at the kitchen table by the calendar marked with the breeding and calving dates of cows, noticed the hands. "They're beautiful," she said with genuine admiration.

The woman looked down at them. "Cripes," she said. "It's years since anyone ever noticed my hands."

And she put her head down on her arms, and cried her heart out in that hot and horrid little kitchen.

I only tell this story as it was told to me. But I hope I've written it in such a way that it is printed on your brain, just as it is printed, indelibly, on mine.

YOUR HEALTH

Doctors Fear Some Drugs

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

We doctors are sometimes peculiar in our behavior: we are either too trusting in using a dangerous drug, or we are too afraid of a harmless drug. For instance: I just saw a man who said that for the last six months his doctor had let him take, each day, a good-sized dose of a drug which causes toxic symptoms in at least one out of four of the patients who try it, and makes a number of them seriously ill. I would never think of taking such a drug myself without watching closely for the first signs of injury to my blood-forming organs. The man I saw happened to be very lucky.

So many of the people I see taking dangerous drugs every day without any control of their white blood count are not even in need of taking anything, because their symptoms all cleared up some months ago. I could not be hired to do such a foolish thing.

And yet, here is a peculiar quirk of human nature: many drugs which I have found to be remarkably safe are so greatly feared by many of my friends in the profession that they will not prescribe them. They have a faint memory of once having read somewhere that the stuff was very dangerous. For instance: the most wonderful drug for patients who want to block a sick headache is ergotamine. In probably 85 per cent of the cases, if properly and quickly taken before nausea begins, it will give grateful relief. It will, so to speak, nip the headache in the bud. But, often, when I have given this drug to a migrainous patient and for awhile she has been delighted with the results obtained, she has come back to say that she does not dare use it any more because her doctor had such a fit when he heard she was taking it. He thought she would surely get gangrene of the legs.

FEW HARMFUL CASES

And yet, for 35 years or so, I have been prescribing this drug for hundreds of migrainous persons, and so far I have never seen it do any serious harm. I have read of a few persons whose arteries were injured by it, but they were persons suffering so severely from cancer of the liver that they were taking the drug at intervals all day and every day. This was very different from a dose once a week or even two or three times a week.

For years, I have kept in touch with a dozen or more patients with very severe and almost daily migraines. These persons have been taking at least five doses of ergotamine every week and so far no one has got into any trouble. I feel, therefore, that we doctors are not justified when we warn our people not to take ergotamine. We remember the few cases in which it worked injury, but we forget how excessively it was used in those cases.

Another drug for which most of us doctors have an unreasonable fear is the estrogen which brings such tremendous relief to those unhappy women who are suffering greatly from menopausal flushes and sweats and nervous storms. Every so often, I see a woman who was so happy when her flushes were relieved by a tiny dose of some estrogen—taken by mouth; perhaps the amount that would go on the head of a pin.

Then some well-meaning doctor took it away from her saying, "Do you want to get a cancer?" I have read every paper I could ever find on this subject, and so far as I can see, there is practically no danger of cancer. The idea arose because of some experiments done years ago on a few mice which were given huge doses of stilbestrol during the course of their whole life. Some of them developed cancer, but, obviously, when a tiny animal for all of its short life is given big doses of a drug, conditions are very different from those in which a large woman is given tiny doses of the drug, for perhaps one-seventieth of her life.

DANGER AVOIDED

A while ago I think I commented on studies in England which showed that, in the case of animals, if the giving of large doses of estrogens is stopped for an occasional week or two, there is absolutely no danger of cancer production. The other day I read that Dr. R. G. Bunge, of the Dept. of Urology, of the University of Iowa, reviewed the records of a large number of men who, because of prostatic disease, had been receiving huge doses of estrogen, some of them for over a year and one-half. In none of them did a new cancer appear anywhere. Recently, also, Dr. L. A. Gray reviewed his experience with another estrogen. He went over the records of over 1,000 of his patients, treated with this drug, and was not able to prove that in any of them cancer had developed because of the medication. There were only three cases in which the suspicion might have arisen, but if one studies 1,000 elderly patients with any disease, or no disease at all, one is likely to run onto three of them with cancer.

I personally have never seen a case in which I suspected that a woman's cancer was due to her having taken estrogens for the relief of her menopausal symptoms. What I have never seen in practice I cannot get excited about.

HOME GARDEN

Liatris Thrives In Shade, Sun

Adventure is the spice of the gardener's life, and July is an excellent month for adventuring.

Plant catalogues and a garden encyclopedia are good companions for such a trip, and of course, the inevitable notebook.

Public parks, private gardens and the nurseries are filled with flowering shrubs and perennials, and now is the time to become acquainted with some thing new. There is, for example, a dwarf liatris with spikes of rosy purple flowers exactly like the five-foot liatris pycnostachya. The low grower makes a fine clump, giving many spikes of bloom over several weeks. It is listed under L. kobold.

Common names for liatris are abundant. Button snakeroot, Kansas gayfeather, blazing star and colic root are a few from various parts of the continent. Liatris will thrive in some of those difficult spots, in poor soil or average soil, in full sun or partial shade.

The rosy purple flowers blend well with rose pink and clear yellow, and commence opening at the top of the spike. This unusual habit will of itself attract attention either in the back of the border (L. pycnostachya—five feet), or in the foreground (L. kobold—15 inches).

Not only human attention is drawn to this plant, but the bees and butterflies seem to find it irresistible.

Wherever gardeners travel this summer they will be searching for that something "new" for their gardens. To these I would say, if it is not possible to bring back a plant, bring back the name of the plant. Sooner or later you will be able to get it.

Pontiff Scores 'Indifference'

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope told Roman Catholics Sunday the world is "covered by deep darkness of ignorance and gripped by the ice of indifference."

In a broadcast message ending the 36th International Eucharistic Congress at Rio de Janeiro, he said science has penetrated many immense abysses, "but what is it, even if it were a million times more powerful, compared to the literally infinite glory which the eucharistic God, sacrificing himself perennially, renders to the eternal father in the silence of our altars?"

THEY'LL 'GET A HORSE'

Train Service Too Slow

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Southern Oregon residents, who have been protesting their train service is too slow, intend to prove that horses can make the run faster.

So next week-end the pony express will be revived for a race through southern Oregon against the Southern Pacific's combined freight-passenger train, the Rogue River, named scornfully by local residents the "Night Crawler."

Alan Knudtson, a director of the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce, said the Douglas county mounted sheriff's posse will make the race with horses in relay from Eugene to Roseburg, a distance of about 75 miles.

AUCTION NETS SPCA $685

An SPCA auction reaped $685 Saturday afternoon from more than 180 donated articles.

Sale of fur coats, golf clubs, an organ, lawn mowers and other articles was described as a "terrific success." Everything but the cars was sold.

Proceeds will be used for maintenance of the Victoria SPCA shelter.

Auctioneer was Frank Kilshaw.

Margo Jones, Theatrical Figure, Dead

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Margo Jones, Broadway producer and the first to make a professional use of the theatre-in-the-round, died Sunday night.

The 41-year-old Dallas woman succumbed to a kidney disease blamed by doctors on inhalation of fumes of a cleaning fluid. She was associate producer of "Inherit the Wind," a current Broadway play starring Paul Muni. The play was first produced in her Dallas arena.

LIKE FATHER?

Duke Denies Auto Ban By Queen

LONDON (Reuters)—Two newspapers today published denials by the 19-year-old Duke of Kent of a report that the Queen has ordered him not to drive alone in future.

The report was published by the Sunday Express, after the duke had left hospital following his third auto accident in 13 months.

Today the Daily Express and Daily Mirror both published a statement issued by the duke through a valet. He said it was "absolutely untrue" that in future he would have to be accompanied by a co-driver.

The statement said he had been driven home from the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst, where he is an officer cadet, by a chauffeur.

He also will return to the academy with a chauffeur "only because of the temporary special circumstance," it added.

The young duke takes after his father in the love of automobiles and fast driving. Twenty years ago the then King George VI issued an order to the late duke—no solo driving.

CHARGED with murder of Stephanie Bryan, 14, is Burton W. Abbott, 27-year-old University of California accounting student. The child's body was found near a cabin owned by the Abbott family. She disappeared in April while on her way home from school in Berkeley, Calif. (NEA Photo.)

WANTED: LEG ROOM

Victoria Door-Duckers Organize To Gain Recognition of Needs

By TONY DICKASON
Tall, guy or doll?
If so, you'll have the chance soon of meeting other long-striders.

A movement is underway, at a high level, of course, to organize a social club here for door duckers.

Prime mover is elongated Guy Roxby (six foot three) of Victoria. Organizational meeting will be at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the YMCA.

Mr. Roxby today was sporting a fresh wound on his forehead, probably suffered in an encounter with a doorway top.

Requirements for club admission here will be: Males, six feet one inch minimum; females, five foot 10 inches.

Club's official greeting will be "Hi There!" It's name, however, is still to be worked out. Similar clubs exist throughout the continent. In Vancouver it is the Tip-Toppers.

Club aims will be to bring a little pressure to bear on merchants, designers of seating and other accommodation obviously built for a race of midgets, to do something about it.

In Chicago, the tall types prevailed on the bus system to install special seats. It is reported that in Vancouver some stores now carry shoes up to size 16, for the tall people.

An attempt was made here to organize a tall types club five years ago. There were some 45 signatories, but things went awry and the group fizzled out.

However, this time indications are everything will come out just heighty-toity!

ICE CREAM FOR KIDDIES

Bathing Beauty Contest Set for Sacred Picnic

A bathing beauty contest will be a highlight of the third anniversary picnic of Greater Victoria Social Crediters on August 6.

The picnic, one of dozens of celebrations scheduled throughout B.C. to mark the third year of Premier W. A. C. Bennett's administration, will be held at Elk Lake.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant will officiate at the picnic opening. Other Social MLA's will be in attendance. Picnic committee promises "free ice cream for the children" and "prizes galore for all ages."

Transportation will be available at the corner of Pandora and Cook at 1.30 p.m.

10,000 Hear Paul Robeson At Peace Arch

WHITE ROCK, B.C. (CP)—Negro baritone Paul Robeson sang and talked for two hours Sunday to a throng of 10,000 persons assembled in Peace Arch Park spanning the international border.

Robeson, until last week banned from entering Canada by the U.S. government because of alleged Communist leanings, was sponsored by the Red-tipped International Workers Order.

It was the fourth such concert staged by the union at the border since Robeson was denied permission to sing in Vancouver in 1952.

Following a U.S. state department decision last week allowing him to enter Canada, Robeson said Sunday he hoped to make a tour of Canada soon "and meet old friends."

Sunday's concert was without incident as Robeson sang favorite spirituals and avoided controversial subjects in short talks between numbers.

Veteran Actor Of 200 Movies, H. Hayden, Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday for Harry Hayden, 71, veteran stage, screen and television actor who gained prominence in the early '20s.

Hayden appeared in some 200 motion pictures during his career.

King of Denmark Conducts Symphony

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—King Frederik of Denmark recently conducted the state radio symphony orchestra in Tschai-kowsky's Symphony No. 6 before a select audience which included members of the royal family. The king is a musical enthusiast, and often is invited to take the baton at private performances of the state radio orchestra.

RETA MYERS ON RUSSIA

there in 1937 to mark 20 years of the people's government. Inside cobbled roads, and Cathedral square, (now being paved) lead to a huge open space, bound on one side by offices of the Soviet Union. It is here that the Communist party congresses, that sessions of the Supreme Soviets of the U.S.S.R. and important conferences take place. Here also is the former palace home of Lenin and Stalin, now part of government offices.

We tried hard to find out where the present leaders live but all queries were met with the same blank look and an uncompromising "I do not know."

There are three cathedrals facing each other on the first square. Assumption, built in 1479; Annunciation, the Czars chapel, built in 1489, and Archangel Cathedral, erected in 1509. All have gold leaf bulbous towers and the latter is filled with precious jeweled ikons and old paintings, now being restored. Special air conditioning apparatus has been installed to preserve their works of art that date back to the 16th century. There are 48 sepulchres of rulers, their families and knights in this building. Large stone sarcophagi, they have rested undisturbed for centuries. Only Napoleon, on his ill-fated trip to Moscow, had the temerity to open them, looking for treasure, which he did not find.

Thrones of Gold

Main cathedral is Assumption, the church of state where marriages were solemnized and coronations took place. Filled with glittering jeweled ikons, thrones of gold and damask, it is an imposing sight. The U.S.S.R. in setting up its new way of life, still takes pride in its history and possessions.

But it was in the Armory chamber of Peter the Great that we saw the fabulous treasures that must make the U.S.S.R. the nation with the greatest possessions in the world. There were glittering crowns, with emeralds as big as robin's eggs . . . "Pay no attention," said the guide when we exclaimed, "You'll see bigger." Diamonds of 100 carats were scattered on the chaises that framed scores of ikons. Goblets, jewelry, church raiment, clothes . . . are jeweled beyond description.

I could write pages about these treasures that lie almost near enough to touch in their glass cases. There appeared to be no guards and we were told there had never been a theft. The fact that they seem to have everything belonging to church, state and the imperial courts must be another story. On asking if there had been a great deal of pilfering during the revolution we were told, "Some, but these items have been obtained."

Elizabeth, daughter of Peter the Great, had 15,000 dresses when she died. If they were all like the brocade jeweled outfits on display, she needed a palace to hold her wardrobe. Catherine the Great was also quite a girl, apparently, when it came to living. The 200-ton, 3,000-piece silver dinner service that she had made in France for one of her lovers, now reposes for all to see. The caparison of her horses, covered with embroidery of pearls, diamonds, emeralds and rubies must have made her jaunts around the city quite a sight. Drawn by six white horses and with 1,000 horsemen in her routine, the jeweled harness and robes would have ransomed a kingdom.

Art Treasures

In addition to all the possessions of monarchs and state, there is also a most interesting collection of gifts made by rulers of the world to the Imperial rulers. The best art of every country is here and provides a fabulous history of culture of every nation.

The famous Faberge collection of jeweled gifts, with which the Czars use to present their family and friends, is also in this building. The last piece, gift of Nicholas II made during the last days before the revolution, is a small vase, carved-out of crystal. It holds a jeweled pansy whose petals frame the miniatures of the four tragic little grand duchesses.

Clockmakers, the world over would be intrigued by the 18th century bronze time-piece, still going, that stands some, four feet high. An eagle drops pearls, every five seconds into the open mouth of its nesting young and every hour crystal rays shoot out in facsimile of the sun. Every three hours doors open, and a fountain plays to soft music. Quite a toy for a Czar's amusement.

Given Warning

Outside in the sunny square, we gaze across at the sober unadorned building that houses today's rulers. Big black cars are parked in front of the entrance and a large car, with slightly drawn curtains, passes us and heads for the entrance. But an unsmiling, plain clothes, hatless man has joined our group and warns us from stepping more than a few feet into the square. Cameras are frowned on, if focussed towards the yellow building. We were closely watched until we passed this spot, the only real shadowing I ever saw in Russia.

We continued our Imperial way that night by going to the famous Bolshoi theatre to see "The Fountain of Bakhchisaray," a colorful interpretation of Pushkins poem of love, war and harems. It was near the end of the summer season so we were denied opportunity of seeing the premiere ballerina. But the dancing was good, settings and costumes gorgeous. As usual we had good seats (at $9 each) and the place was crowded with hatless, print-frocked women and tieless crumpled men. We were told we would be noticeable if we dressed up. And I believe them.

We were a little late and just arrived in time to find our seats before curtain time. Those who could not pick out their chairs were out of luck and sat anywhere, where there were no ushers. Intermission brought a great scramble since many were shut out for, like everything else in Russia, the curtain goes up on the dot. Many late arrivals had the wrong seats, but no one helps adjust the confusion.

Stand During Show

Everyone is finally sorted out and we get a chance to look around at the gorgeous gold and crimson theatre with its many tiers of gilded boxes that surround the buildings. All seats are arm chairs, and upholstered in red damask. Many people in the boxes, however, stand all during the performance to get a better view and, enthusiastically crowd down the aisles to the front of the stage when performers respond to ovations.

But with all the glory, the gilt, the satin and the beautiful stage, there is a sad comment . . . sanitary arrangements for theatre-goers. No matter what public building you go into in Russia, you discover that the "toilet," as they call it, is unsupervised. I would say, for days at a time. There is no attendant and Russians are not fussy. I have held my breath and stuffed my nose in some of the best buildings. In one restaurant I could not stand it and decided that discomfort was preferable to assault on my senses. Sanitation appears to be still one of the unessentials in the U.S.S.R.

So, from the sublime to the ridiculous we ended the last day of June in Moscow. The next day was Canada's birthday, and we had a date with the Canadian ambassador.

Singapore Assembly Asks Home Rule Now

SINGAPORE (Reuters).—Singapore's newly-formed legislative assembly today asked Britain to grant immediate and full self-government to this important Southeast Asian colony.

By a vote of 28 to 1, with three abstentions, it passed a motion that "the people of Singapore are determined to end colonialism and to rule themselves through their elected representatives."

The motion was initiated by the Progressive party—the colony's most right-wing political group—and backed by three other parties represented in the legislature. It was quickly pushed to a formal vote by Chief Minister David Marshall, leader of the left-wing Labor front.

The assembly has been in existence only three months. Its members were chosen in the colony's first general elections this spring under a constitution which gives the colony self-government but leaves control of defence and internal security in the hands of the governor.

Cordell Hull Funeral Set For Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UP).—Flags throughout the U.S. flew at half-mast today in tribute to Cordell Hull, former secretary of state and father of the United Nations, who died Saturday after a long illness.

The body of the 83-year-old statesman lay in state in the historic chapel of Washington Cathedral where mourners paid their last respects. The funeral will be held Tuesday.

HOW to get a Friendly Loan at NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan advisor. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly Loan?—Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay.

How much can be borrowed from Niagara?—Up to $1500; sometimes, more.

How quickly can I get money?—Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours for most loans.

How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts . . . from 4 to 24 months. And for all people who have uneven income during the year, such as farmers and schoolteachers, special payment schedules may be arranged on loans above $500.

Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.

Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare . . . often you'll "buy" more money at less cost at Niagara.

Is life insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. Be sure you get this protection when you borrow.

Does a friend have to "back" my loan?—No, seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.

How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara Loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs. 2. Husband-and-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are: to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

Calgary, Here I Come, Says Bill

McColl Wins B.C. Closed; Gains Cup Team

Bill McColl looked his detractors in the eye Sunday and made them look back and like what they saw.

Willington Cup Golf Team Named

Bill McColl of Royal Colwood Golf Club Sunday was named to the B.C. Willington Cup team along with three Vancouver golfers.

Others are Lyle Crawford, B.C. Amateur champion; Doug Bajus, Vancouver city champion; and Bob Kidd, low amateur in the B.C. Open, semi-finalist in the B.C. Amateur and Marine Drive Club titles.

Doug Watkin of Point Grey was named team alternate, and Bryan Copp of Quilchena, the B.C. junior champion, as provincial junior representative for the Buckingham Trophy match.

B.C. is the defending cup champion. This year's match will be played at Calgary July 30-31.

The B.C. team will leave by plane Wednesday in order to get an extra day's practice. Hilliard Lyle, B.C. Association president, and non-playing captain, will accompany the unit.

Eddie Olson Cougar Coach

AHL All-Star Winger Signs

By BILL WALKER

An American-born all-star left winger in the American Hockey League last year is the new coach of the Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League.

Edward ("Eddie") Ferdinand Olson, 33-year-old AHL scoring champion, Sunday signed a one-year contract to replace former Cougar mentor Billy Reay. Reay recently accepted the joint position of general manager and coach of the reactivated Seattle club. A member of the Cleveland Barons for the last five years, twice league scoring champion in that span, and winner of the most valuable player award in 1952-53, Olson agreed to terms following a flying one-day visit to the city.

Details of the contract were not revealed by Cougar general manager Fred Hutchinson. Olson, who was recommended to the club by general manager Lynn Patrick of the Boston Bruins, with whom the Cougars have a working agreement this year, was acquired by the Cougars in a trade for "one of three players."

The Barons have their choice of three players, Hutchinson said, although declining to reveal the identities of the Cougars in question.

Olson plans to play any position that needs to be filled with the Cougars; however, his primary function on the ice will be that of a left winger from which post he scored 41 goals (the league high) and had 47 assists for 88 points last year when he won the AHL point crown. (His complete record will be found below.)

Twice Named to All-Stars

Born in Hancock, Michigan, and playing all his hockey in the United States, Olson served for three years in the U.S. coast guard prior to turning professional with St. Louis in the 1945-46 season. Previously he played with Oakland in the old Pacific Coast Amateur League. Squared built, he stands 5 feet 10 inches in height—Olson was twice named to the AHL all-star team, in 1952-53 and again last year. He attributes much of his zeal for the new position to the coaching he received at Cleveland under Ben Cook, whom he describes as "the best I know."

Olson, who arrived in town early Sunday morning and left Sunday evening, will report to the Boston training camp at Hershey, Penn., on Sept. 12, where he will work with Lynn Patrick and Bruin coach Milt Schmidt in determining which players will be assigned to the Cougars by the Bruins. He will then take command of the Cougars at their fall training session, tentatively scheduled to open at Seattle on Sept. 21.

That he plans to play regularly was evidenced by his remark in reply: "I've only missed about 12 games in nine years and over 600 games."

Olson thus becomes the fifth Cougar coach in seven years. Preceding him were Eddie Wares, Roger Leger, Ed Dorohoy and Reay.

Eddie Olson's professional hockey record follows:

Farmers Win Pair; Lead Island Final

Farmers 6, 9; Eagles 3, 8

Farmer Construction grabbed a stranglehold on the Lower Island Senior Amateur Baseball League final at Athletic Park Sunday afternoon, sweeping a wild double-header from a valiant crew of Eagles, 6-3, 9-8.

Farmers now lead the best-of-five final, two games to none. The Eagles gave the undefeated league-leaders their stiffest test of the season in the nightcap, hanging on for 12 innings before being subdued, 9-8.

Farmers, after blowing an early 4-0 lead, were starting their first league defeat of the season in the face in the ninth inning when a two-out three-run rally tied the score at 8-8. Ron Karadimas' triple and Stu Mitchell's sacrifice fly in the 12th broke the deadlock.

Don Donahue, third Farmer pitcher, took the win, while Des Moseley went all the way for the losers.

Tempests flared in the sixth and seventh innings of the second game, and players of both clubs engaged in mild ruckus. In the opener, Bill Prior struck out 17 batters and scattered the losers.

Irish Smile Again

Archie Browning To Rejoin 'Rocks'

Nanaimo 7, 'Rocks 6

Sunday's good news was a lot easier to take than Saturday night's perhaps disastrous 7-6 loss to the high-flying Nanaimo Timbermen. The Shamrocks today were talking about the return of Archie Browning.

Browning, the slender, 165-pound scoring machine, perhaps the greatest scorer in recent Intercity Lacrosse League history, announced his return to the Shamrocks Sunday night.

In retirement since the end of the Mann Cup finals last year, Browning has come out of moth balls and will once more shrug on the green turgery of the Rocks in Wednesday night's game against Mount Pleasant Indians.

It will be perhaps just what the Rocks will need to close the almost unmanageable four-point gap between themselves and Nanaimo. The Timbermen, with eight games to play, have a game in hand over the Irish, whom they meet twice more in the regular schedule.

FERGIE GETS TWO

Browning could have been put to advantage Saturday night. Opening with a sloppy attack that put them behind, 5-3, at the half, the Rocks received yeoman performance from another old master, Arnie Ferguson. Ferguson, coaxed out of retirement earlier in the season, scored two goals on three shots on an uncanny Fred Fulla.

Fulla made the difference as the second half waxed hot. Reported sick in the dressing room between periods of the taut contest, witnessed by over 2,800 fans he stopped a phenomenal 39 of the 45 shots fired at him by the desperate Shamrocks. He turned aside 21 of them in the second half, 12 in the third period alone.

Victoria's George Johnston, was warm enough, also, in the third frame. He stepped 10 shots as both clubs opened up all-out attacks.

With Timbermen still sporting their 5-3 lead after the scoreless third, Bill Bamford and Ferguson scored earlier in the fourth to pull Victoria into a tie. But Bob Bremner and Jim McNulty opened up the margin again for Nanaimo, with McNulty's tally the eventual winner.

FULLA SLAMS DOOR

Whitely Sverson, before taking a misconduct penalty for an uncompilimentary remarks to the officials, made it 7-6 at 13:32 of the period, but Fulla rose to the occasion to keep the Rocks at bay. He capped his display with a great stop of Jackie Northup in the waning seconds of the game.

Derby Champs and Reason Why

Strip teasers in the early morning were the answer in the Anglers' Times Solarium Derby on Sunday. Hugh Tumilty, left, got his prize-winning catch (22.15) off Sesus Island, at 7 a.m., and Dave Berry hooked his second-place lunker (22.13) in Misery Bay at 8:30. See story. (Times photo).

There'll be more time for fishing now for F. Wiltse. Third-place in the Solarium Derby Sunday was his fishing pross, but his material gain was a power mower being presented by strait swimmer Bert Thomas.

Tumilty Derby Winner; Proceeds Near Record

By DENNY BOYD

Hugh Tumilty, 3472 Bethune, joined the mechanized fishing corps Sunday.

Tumilty was the King of Derby Day in Saanich Inlet, taking first place in the annual Anglers-Times Solarium Derby with a husky 22-pound, 15-ounce salmon that he wrestled to a decision off Sesus Island.

Given his choice of the showcase of attractive prizes, Tumilty gleefully selected a 3½-h.p. Evinrude outboard motor. In Tumilty's eye as he accepted the prize from guest master of ceremonies, channel swimmer Bert Thomas, was an anticipatory gleam of many comfortable fishing trips to come.

The big winner took his prize fish at 7 Sunday morning on 250 feet of line and a Strip-Teaser, the lure that accounted for the majority of the top fish entered in the derby.

While a complete tabulation has not yet been made, derby officials proudly announced that their work and the generosity of Victorians had combined to produce a purse of close to $6,500, which will be turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium to continue the work of restoring health and mobility to sick and crippled children.

Sunday's figure ran the total of Anglers' Times Solarium Derby purses to close to $32,000.

Like Father, Like Son

Young Dave Berry, following wisely in the footsteps of his dad, Dick Berry, who won the first prize in the 1954 derby, took second prize with a fish that was just two ounces under Tumilty's entry. Dave took his 22-pound, 13-ouncer in Misery Bay at 8:30, also using the Strip-Teaser and he carted home a new vacuum cleaner for his prowess.

F. Wiltse selected a power mower as his reward for boating the third largest fish, a 21-pound, eight-ounce scrapper that he took on Strip-teaser and 400 feet of line across from the Stone House.

A minnow-dodger combination produced the fourth prize winner, Tom Alexander picking up a Mixmaster for his 17-pounder.

The derby was held under perfect conditions. Saanich Inlet was drenched with sunshine and Brentwood Anchorage, where the prize-presentation ceremonies were held, had a Mardi Gras air about it.

Dozens of boats of all sizes, shapes and propulsions circled around the mouth of Todd Inlet, waiting for the starting signal half an hour before the derby.

At 6 a.m. an exploding flare sent the boats scurrying away to the better known and favored fishing spots. Fishing continued until 4 when Thomas fired three shots in the air from the Anchorage.

ISLAND DIGEST

12 Victoria Daily Times MONDAY, JULY 25, 1955

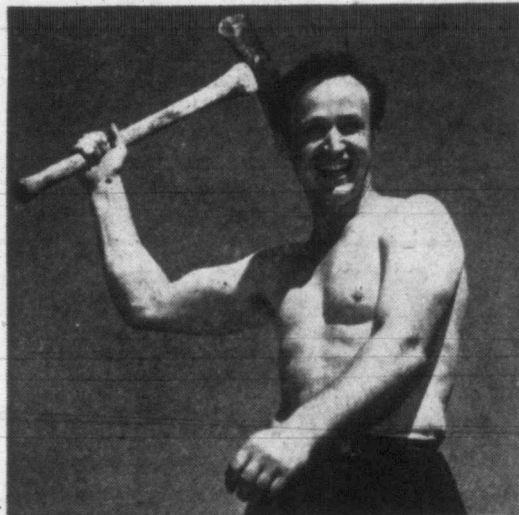

LOG BIRLER Jubiel Wickheim, of Sooke, left, spilled Bill Baikie, of Royston, to win first place in All-Sooke

Day contest. World champion Ardiel Wickheim was defeated by Jubiel in first round of competition.

CHAMPION BABIES in annual show, regular feature of All-Sooke Day, were given prizes by Times publisher Stuart Keate. Seen with Mr. Keate are Mrs. Adrian Koolman, with Adrian Jr., winner of Victoria Daily Times cup as best baby in show; Mrs. Jack Lindley with Betty Jean, best baby under six months; Mrs. John Boel and Garry, best Sooke baby. Although competition is open to all rural babies, all winners were from Sooke.

OLD HANDS in loggers' sports made room at All-Sooke Day, Saturday, for a newcomer, Frank Radelja, husky 32-year-old faller from Nanaimo. A power-saw man at work, he won tree chopping contest working from springboard, won power-saw bucking, entered timber chopping and hand bucking events with coaching by competitors Charlie Murray and Alan Woodrow.

HIGH CLIMBER Dan Sailor of Newton, B.C., and Ketchikan was star performer in All-Sooke Day climbing competition. Competitor in all Pacific coast tree climbing events, he trains hard, dominates field.

All-Sooke Day Huge Success

By DON INGHAM, Times Island Editor
Children and adults from all parts of Southern Vancouver Island, jammed the Sooke River flats Saturday for one of the most pleasant and successful All-Sooke Day celebrations in the 21-year history of the event.

A crowd estimated at more than 10,000 began gathering near noon, when children's sports started and continued a steady round of enjoyment until well into the evening.

The celebration was opened officially by Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization and now a permanent resident in the Sooke district, and master of ceremonies was D. J. DeRoche, president of Sooke Community Association, that sponsored the event.

FULL PROGRAM

In a highlight of the sports program, a team of husky loggers from the Elder Timber Co. Ltd. defeated a Sooke team in the tug of war in two straight sets.

AB. David Swanbeck of HMCS Naden won the Sooke Canadian Legion challenge trophy in the half-mile race, defeating Gerry Filipp of Sooke and Stan Margetish of Saanich.

Relay team winning the Vancouver Island Coach Lines trophy consisted of Lyle Begg, Peter Bulatovich, David Swanbeck and Bill Martin.

Dan Sailor Tree Climb Winner; Crowd Cheers Young Performer

Two high climbers and a husky young faller dominated the annual loggers' sports at All-Sooke Day on the Sooke river flats Saturday.

They were Dan Sailor of Newton, B.C., and Ketchikan, Alaska, who climbed the 80-foot spar tree in 28 seconds; Ronnie Pappenberger, 16-year-old from Salt Spring Island, who won cheers from the crowd for climbing the tree in 57.5 seconds, and Frank Radelja of Nanaimo, who won two first places in the falling, chopping and bucking competitions.

Sailor ran up the tree with his belt and spurs faster than the average banker can run to the bus stop, and came down in great leaps almost as fast as a free fall.

Surprise of the climbing contest was the performance of the Salt Spring Island lad, who hopes to be a "champ like Pop." His father is Gerry Pappenberger, who won the climbing event in 1949 and 1950.

NO COMPETITION
Observers said Sailor's outstanding ability has "killed off" competition for this event, which usually attracts at least three or four entries. A world champion, he holds records in sports at several Pacific Coast points.

Using unorthodox style, Radelja defeated the experts in winning the tree chopping contest, then won the power saw bucking contest.

World champion log birler Ardiel Wickheim of Sooke was doused in the first round by his younger brother, Jubiel, who went on to defeat Bill Baikie of Royston in the final.

Tree chopping—Frank Radelja, Nanaimo, 1; Elmer Stoltz, Milnes Landing, 2; J. Charles Murray, Wellington, 3.

Chopping contest, square timber—Hugh McKenzie, Victoria, 1; Alan Woodrow, Courtenay, 2; Frank Radelja, 3.

Log rolling—William Grunow, Sooke, 1; Dennis Smith, Saseenos, 2; Wesley Carlow, Sooke, 3.

Log bucking—J. Charles Murray, Wellington, 1; Alan Woodrow, Courtenay, 2; Hugh McKenzie, Victoria, 3.

Power saw contest—Frank Radelja, 1; Jack Newton, Victoria, 2; James Szasz, Lady Smith, 3.

SHOPPING GUIDE

It's Christmas in July
At Huge Midsummer Sale

By PENNY SAVER

Yes, I said "Christmas!" Those of you who have the habit of doing your Christmas shopping all year 'round, will have a hey-day at the enormous sale of cards, paper and ribbons on sale in town. Most prices are cut at least in half, and many are cut even lower. The wrapping paper is of the finest quality, and in original, attractive designs. There are hand-painted and machine processed patterns that will delight the giver and receiver of the gift. Regularly priced at two sheets for 25 cents, now the package is just 12 cents.

Cards are being shown in a marvellous array of colors, sizes, shapes and types. For personal or business purposes, you'd be wise to buy your stock of cards now and stash them away. You remember how much cards cost at Christmas, well, compare these prices: In boxes, 20 cards for 49 cents; 12 cards for 32 cents; 12 cards for 49 cents; and 15 cards for 32 cents. Where can you beat those? A plastic bag of assorted or particular-type cards is selling at 36 for 44 cents. It's almost unbelievable, isn't it!

There are other items, too. There's a little wonder package, a Christmas wrapping paper ensemble. Inside the colorful box are eight sheets of 20 by 30 inch paper, four sheets of 15 by 20 inch paper, three gift enclosure cards, and five tags. The price? Just 42 cents. The tags and cards all match the paper, too.

Super-size presto stickers are another feature. There are huge Santas, wreaths, snow men and poinsettias in vivid colors. You just peel the paper from the back of the stickers, and press them on the package or place you're decorating. These wonder-stickers will stick to any surface without moistening, and are easily removed. The price was 39 cents for a package of three, but now the same package is just 19 cents. Smaller versions of these stickers were three for 29 cents, now 14 cents, and even smaller ones, six for 25 cents, and they're now 12 cents for the same package. I'm telling you, this is a terrific sale.

Other patterned wrapping papers to be used for birthday and other gift wrapping are on sale, too. There are solid, modern designs, stripes and gay paisley patterns to choose from, and they're various low prices. Just 154 days 'til Christmas! So call 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find these wonderful buys.

Marriage to Bully
Holds Unhappiness

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a girl sees for herself what is in store for her if she pursues a certain course of action, it's time for her to decide whether she is on the right track.

(Q) "I am 18 years old and have been going steady with a certain boy for three years. When I first met him he was wonderful to me in every way. But lately he has had violent temper outbursts in which he slaps and knocks me around. At other times he can be gentle as can be. In spite of this slapping, I love him. In public and with my family he is nice to me, but when we are alone he gets angry and is terrible."

"His mother doesn't believe he has a temper. If we quarrel she blames me, and his folks think I am the boss. People think we get along so well. I know two people can't always get along well, but I don't think it is right for a man to beat his girl friend or wife. I think he figures that if I let him hit me once and still went out with him, he could do it again and again. Do you think I should break off with him? Or do you think a separation would make him realize how I feel?"

(A) You might try a separation, but if I were you I wouldn't be too hopeful that it would do the trick. In the long run you would be better off if you broke off with him and found someone else who would treat you as a man should treat a girl.

This young man is a bully at heart, even if he does have a better side. Once he gets what he wants—and he felt he had that when you were willing to go out with him after he slapped you—he will continue to bully you. Should you be foolish enough to marry him, you can look forward to more of the same treatment.

Even worse, the chances are that he would treat any children you had as he has treated you. Do you want this sort of marriage, and would you feel you were being fair to bring children into the world, knowing what was in store for them?

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, 1000 Falmouth Road, entertained at Erskine Hall Friday evening to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. A two-tier wedding cake decorated with a bride and groom centred the refreshment table, and white candles and orange blossoms flanked the cake. Their son, Mr. William Alexander, sang "Because." Mr. and Mrs. Alexander were married July 22, 1905, in Vally Mena, County Antrim, Ireland. They came to Canada in 1909 and settled in Fernie, B.C., before coming to Victoria 30 years ago.

TODAY'S RECIPE

MACARONI CRAB MEAT
SALAD

8 ounces elbow macaroni, 1 can crab meat, 1 cup stuffed olives, chopped, 1 green pepper, chopped, 2 cups chopped celery, 6 tomatoes, peeled and chopped, 1 cup American or Swiss cheese, cut in bits, French dressing. Cook the macaroni in rapidly boiling salted water until tender. Drain, rinse, and cool. When cool, mix all the above ingredients with the macaroni, moisten with French dressing, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover a large platter with crisp lettuce, arrange the salad on it, garnish with radishes, and serve. Serves eight.

For hot weather, a tepid bath is much the most cooling kind to take.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is a well-known psychological fact that a long task seems much easier if you break it up into small parts and concentrate on one part at a time. That is why women succeed in self-improvement when they know they can accomplish a certain thing in a given length of time, and that is why my Eight Weeks Self-Improvement Marathon is popular.

In eight weeks women can greatly improve their hair and skin and posture, and can lose from 15 to 20 pounds. Each year at this time I print a few letters from Marathon winners in order to encourage the rest of you and also because these letters bring up problems in figure which many women have. Here's one such letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: I had been planning to go on a diet for about a year and finally got up enough self-control to buckle down and lose the excess weight I had gained during my last pregnancy. I am 24 and the mother of three wonderful children, one five years old, one 2½ and a baby 14 months old.

"I started Marathon ten weeks ago and am still on it. Here are my before and after weights and measurements:

	Before	After
Weight	159	134 pounds
Bust	38	36 inches
Waist	30	26 inches
Hips	41	38 inches

100 PER CENT BETTER

"I've never felt better in my life than I do right now and I look 100 per cent better. My family and friends give me so many compliments that it surely is worth while to leave off the cake and extras.

"My five-year-old son added the final spur toward reducing. He said, 'Mommy, you sure are getting fat.'

"I have a little more weight to lose. That is why I am continuing. I do the exercises faithfully. They have helped make my figure better proportioned and they also relax me. It is so important for young mothers to lose any excess weight they gain during pregnancy and to tone up relaxed abdominal muscles with exercise. Some women never look the same after their first child. There is no reason for this except lack of information or procrastination.

If you would like to have my new 10-cent, Eight-Weeks Self-Improvement Marathon booklet which gives you a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks' time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Gold and Champagne Tones Seen in Bridal Entourage

Champagne and gold-toned flowers formed a setting for the arrangements and wedding of Miss Rosalyn Jeanne Foster and Mr. Colin Raeside Moir Saturday evening. The lovely bride is the daughter of Mr. James R. Foster, 2618 Blanshard Street, and the late Mrs. Foster, and her groom is the son of Mrs. R. Moir, 1867 Forrester Street, and the late Mr. Moir.

White asters and daisies were effectively combined with yellow gladioli and gold roses in the floral arrangements decorating St. John's church for the ceremony performed by Rev. Canon T. W. Wilkinson. Frederick Chubb presided at the organ and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love" was sung by Miss Isobel Atchison.

The exquisite bridal gown was fashioned in the princess mode with an extremely full, hooped, waltz-length skirt. The bodice featured an Empire waistline, an Elizabethan collar and three-quarter-length cuffed sleeves. Her veil of champagne silk illusion was caught to a bonnet-style headpiece designed in the same fabric as her gown and her only jewelry was a pearl and gold filigree locket which had belonged to her mother. Eight cymidium orchids with stephanotis formed the bride's bouquet. Mr. Foster gave his daughter in marriage.

Carrying out the champagne and gold motif were the gowns worn by the bridal attendants. Mrs. Einar Brynjolfsson, who was matron of honor for her sister, Miss Wynona Foster, Doreen Goudal and Florence Bradley, bridesmaids, and little Sharon Crawford, flower girl.

Their dresses of gold taffeta shot with rose silk were also styled on princess lines with Empire waist, V-neck and tiny cap sleeves. Bonnets of the same material, white gloves and shoes completed their ensembles and they carried bouquets of double white asters and white daisies.

A Late Summer Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. T. Ross Main, 3003 Foul Bay Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Olive, to Mr. Robert Charles Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Saturday Evening Ceremony Unites Marlene Pearce, Robert L. Purser

Miss Marlene Shirley Pearce, daughter of Mrs. D. M. Pearce, 1607 Cook Street, became the bride of Mr. Robert Lawrence Purser, son of Mrs. E. L. Purser, 958 Mason Street, in an evening ceremony in St. John's Church, Saturday.

Canon T. W. Wilkinson, officiated at the double ring ceremony performed in a setting of white gladioli, snapdragons and stocks and ivy. Organist, Frederick Chubb, played traditional wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ronald V. Pearce. She chose a full-length gown fashioned with a lace bodice and skirt of net with lace panels. The close-fitting jacket was of lace with long lily-point sleeves and a collar embroidered in pearls and rhinestones.

Her cascade bouquet was of red roses, white feathered carnations and stephanotis. A veil of white net and lace with a crown headdress matched her dress.

Bridal attendants were gowned in full-length dresses with lace jackets. Mrs. Jean Bridges was matron of honor in yellow, and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli; Miss Florence Dewhurst and Miss Joan Oldnall were bridesmaids in mauve and blue respectively and carried cascade bouquets of yellow gladioli. All wore headdresses in tone and pearl jewelry. Flower girl, Melvina Purser, sister of the groom, wore a yellow full-length gown of lace and satin and carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli and carnations.

Best man was William Prior, and ushers were William W. Bridges and James Lawrence Thompson.

McEwen's Tartan Room was scene of the reception which followed. A three-tier cake with pink rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and groom centred the bride's table. Lawrence Thompson proposed the toast to the bride.

The newlyweds planned a honeymoon to be spent in Vancouver, Seattle and Port Angeles. For traveling, Mrs. Purser chose a pastel pink boxy-style suite worn with beige accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Purser will live at 517 Harbinger Avenue when they return.

flanked with American beauty roses, centred the lace-covered bride's table which also had arrangements of sweet peas and gladioli at each end.

For the wedding trip to the western states the bride donned a champagne taffeta duster coat with mandarin collar over her wedding dress. Her corsage was a mauve and cream orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. King will make their home at 1004 1/2 Hillside Avenue.

Guests at the wedding from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gronseth and Mrs. K. Pouni, Seattle; Mrs. J. A. Beaton and Miss Lenore Beaton, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cogburn, Port Angeles; Sgt. and Mrs. Raymond Scouler with Teddy, Barbara and Mike Scouler, Camp Shilo, Man., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Rainey and Miss Barbara Rainey, Metichosin.

Woman Senator Convinced Her Sex Must Practise Good Citizenship

OTTAWA (CP)—Housewives who spend all their time at home are just so much deadwood, says Senator Muriel Fergusson.

Women should take an interest in life around them, the Liberal senator for New Brunswick said in an interview. With modern, time-saving appliances, they have extra time to devote to being good citizens, without neglecting their families.

For instance, said Mrs. Fergusson, one of five women in Canada's 102-seat upper chamber, women's clubs are both "very interesting and a wonderful source of education."

Mrs. Fergusson, 56, practises what she preaches. She has led a busy public life and belonged to numerous women's groups.

AFTER AN ILLNESS

Admitted to the New Brunswick Bar in 1925, she was re-admitted in 1936 following an illness. She became clerk of the county and circuit courts for Victoria county and judge of the county probate court.

From 1944 to 1947 she was provincial counsel for the wartime prices and trade board and between 1947 and 1953 was director of family allowances and old age security for New Brunswick. She was the first woman to hold all these positions. In 1953 she was appointed to the senate.

Her latest distinction is being one of three women on the 26-member Parliamentary group representing Canada at the current inaugural associations in Paris.

Mrs. Fergusson has numerous pet projects she hopes to further during her political career — rehabilitation programs for women in penitentiaries similar to those provided for men, removal of un-ing projects designed for their limited incomes and more recreation and education programs to head off the loneliness and discouragement of old age.

The first action the committee plans is to find out what is being done across the country to provide these things, she said.

Italian Fashions

Show High Waists And Tunic Effects

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters)—Italian fashion designers have decreed high-waists and undercut bosoms of the empire line for fall and winter fashions.

The Antonelli collections at the big Florence fashion show featured the "intermittent line" with a long-waisted and broken hipline treatment. Other models introduced a definite empire trend.

One of Italy's best known designers, Veneziani of Milan, launched a new "bare line," an evolution of the slender silhouette with tunic effects introduced last January.

The line features well-tailored day wear, stripped of superfluous detail.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, JULY 26, 1955

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Spending more than you can truly afford on frivolities would require long time to get out from under irksome condition. Pay as you go today and everyone benefits—shopkeepers, too, since they'd have time collecting. Enjoy simple delights.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Now you find one of your own clan requires much tact to prevent open outburst where associates in-outside world is involved. Keep all companions separate until planets give good time to reconcile, talk out differences.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Be very careful of highway. Try to schedule your time intelligently so that you can get onerous chores finished. Then you can get out into world of action without neglecting essential, vital duties. Delve into mused records.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Inflated sense you can achieve more than is possible now makes real trouble. Look at facts and steer middle course. Get yourself in more attractive mien by treatments long found satisfactory. Be gentle with worried older persons.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—This is your day to make sure you do nothing to upset one in your family. You feel pretty tied down to long-standing responsibilities. It's mainly the weather, so, take it easy today. Relax, rest. Better days coming up for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Private worry makes you feel incapable of giving time, support to comrades that is necessary for joint success in interesting plan. However, by scheduling your time more carefully, refusing to go off on tangent, all's well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Conflict between wishes, practical points of view requires more sensible approach than you've been giving. Use today to investigate good and difficult phases of both standpoints. Then tomorrow you can solve rightly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Side-stepping that tiff with one in power prevents some fixed detrimental condition. Make sure you perform all worldly, public duties as would satisfy the most rule-conscious official, drill-sergeant. Keep with loyal friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Far fields indeed look green. However, you accepted present lot without coercion from anyone, so finish duty expected of you. Use spare time to think out ways for increasing effectiveness in future. Be conscientious.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Long time well-wishers, staunch supporters give you some pretty sound advice for getting out from under heavy expenses. Avoid starting new commitment as well. Get your affairs on sound foundation right now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—No one knows better than you that solving problems requires aid from those in powerful position. Do your civic duties with conscientiousness so that all in authority can see your good points. Then they back you when you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Getting more knowledge, data right way to perform your everyday job may conflict with current methods employed by you. However, study newspaper, other outlets now and you get better slant for future use. Clean up surroundings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY...

Tuesday's child is one of those interesting youngsters who always seems to have to learn the hard way in early life. However, this is all right, since once that experience is behind him—or her—it will never be forgotten and will be used to replace onerous situations intelligently with right action at later times. Give your offspring much praise or there will be frustration that seems hard to get rid of. Some work completed with public life is best outlet for this child's unusual abilities.

Pony Rides Big Hit At Orphans' Outing

Thirty-eight youngsters from the B.C. Protestant Orphanage were guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sadler, operators of the Beaver Lake pavilion.

This was the third year the orphans had been invited for a day's outing at the lake. Boating and swimming occupied most of the youngsters time, but they enjoyed most the pony rides arranged by Charles Sadler.

They lined up again and again to take a turn on three ponies in service for the day.

Local businesses donated food, candy, ice cream and pop for the occasion.

Partner Testifies Talbott Made $132,000 in 2 Years

WASHINGTON (UP) — Harold E. Talbott's New York business partner testified today that the secretary made $132,032 from their partnership in the first two years after he came into the government post.

Paul B. Mulligan, Talbott's associate in a management engineering firm, told the Senate investigating subcommittee Talbott made only $1,417 from the firm in 1947—the firm's first year.

Talbott's income from the partnership increased rapidly, both before and after he entered government, Mulligan said. And in the 12 months ended last Jan. 31 the air force secretary made $66,653.

Runaway Truck Piles Through Town at 80 MPH

Driver's Wife Races Ahead To Warn Traffic

WINSTED, Conn. (AP)—A terrified truck driver rode his runaway five-ton rig through Winsted at 80 miles an hour Sunday morning with no brakes.

John McFaum, 48, shot through three red lights on the main street before his horse van, with four prize horses worth $15,000 and two helpers in the back ground safely to a halt against the curb on an up-grade outside of town.

His wife, in her own car, who passed him on the downgrade at 85 miles an hour going into town and waved off traffic at the first intersection.

FREEWHEELING When he hit the downgrade approaching this city he tried to shift the truck to a lower gear to slacken speed, and the transmission broke. The whole rig started freewheeling down the hill into Winsted's main street. He pressed the foot brake, which went right to the floorboards.

Panic-stricken, he yanked the emergency, but the truck was rolling so fast it promptly burned out.

His wife, driving the convertible, saw the truck was out of control and pulled along side.

"I've got no brakes, get out of the way," shouted McFaum, but instead she pulled ahead to warn oncoming traffic.

Air Raid Shelters In Homes Ordered By Netherlands

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—All new houses more than two storeys high must have reinforced air-raid shelters in the basement, under a new Netherlands government regulation.

The shelters must have an emergency exit in case the normal entrance is blocked. The regulation lays down technical requirements for different types of shelters, and says the minimum size must be one square yard of floor space for each resident.

Nehru Takes Action

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru ordered Portugal today to close its legation in New Delhi and pledged his government to the "peaceful liberation" of Goa, a Portuguese possession on the Indian west coast.

MARILYN BELL'S CHANNEL SWIM DIARY

Swimming Becomes Job, Cuts Fun

FOLKESTONE (By Mail) — Well, I did it! It was hanging over me like a shadow for a week. The long swim. Just a few days before I came down with quinsy, I did it. Eight hours. And am I glad! Now it's over until the next long one. That's the way training is. Start with one to two hours, and work up to 10.

You know, swimming isn't quite the same for me as it used to be. Like Gus says, when I swam the lake I was hungry. Hungry for success. I WANTED to swim more than anything else in the world. Now I HAVE to swim. It's a job and that takes some of the fun out of it. I HAVE to swim that old channel, and after now I'm really beginning to think maybe I'll make it. Maybe I'm getting a little of my confidence back. Though I'll never be so confident as to think I can do anything. Just because I want to do it.

Part of Growing Up

Mother says that's part of growing up. Finding out that everything isn't all fun and that jobs have to be done even if they're harder and scare you more than anything you've ever done before. I'll be 18 in October so I guess it's about time I grew up, but I sure had a lot of fun when I was 16. Well, I'm getting away from

CHANNEL WINDS FORCE MARILYN INTO HARBOR

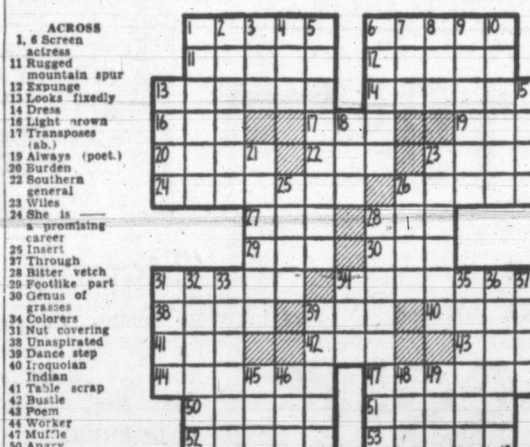

FOLKESTONE (BUP)—Strong northeast winds in the Straits of Dover forced Marilyn Bell to call off her usual try-out in the open channel Sunday.

Instead, the Toronto girl swam in sheltered Dover harbor for an hour and a half, at top speed much of the time.

too rough. We don't judge it just by looking at it. We phone over to Dover to Pop Burwill to see what he thinks. Sometimes what looks like good water to us, actually is too bad to swim in, and Mr. Burwill knows this.

Anyway, it was too rough for the long swim again. So we went down to the pool to do sprints. Joan went in with me and we tried for speed for a couple of hours. It really was fun. I'm used to pools. It always reminds me of the Lake Shore pool and I feel right at home, though it makes me a little lonesome. Speaking of being lonesome, I finally got a letter from Maria, my girlfriend. She gave me all the news about my school friends. Got letters from Karen, too. My, I'll be glad to see them all again.

Anyway, where was I. Oh, yes. We trained at the pool and then we lay in the sun on the side where it was warm. The Egyptians were there and we watched them for a while. We had tea, too. That kills me! Having tea outdoors by the pool. On a tray with a plate for the cakes and buns and, paper table napkins and everything. I think these English people must even have tea in the middle of the night. Ernie, that's our chauffeur, says he gets the wife and the nipper (that's his eight-year-old daughter) a cuppa every morning. He says a cup of tea is a small price to keep peace in the family. Gosh. There I am off the track again. I forgot to say that Gus went to London to meet Mrs. Ryder.

Felt Like Crying

It is a beautiful cemetery and of course when they played the Last Post I felt like crying. I always do, but I only had a little bit of tears in my eyes. They didn't show. There was the nicest man there from Toronto, a Mr. J. W. Searles, and he had a Canada crest on his blazer. Gus admired it and said he wished he had one like it to wear over here. Do you know yesterday Mr. Searles left that crest at the hotel. He thought it might be good luck for the swim. I guess it was a maple leaf crest on his jacket or sweater, or whatever he wears.

After the ceremony in the cemetery it got even colder. We were all soaked in the rain so both Mother and Gus said it was much too cold for me to swim even in the pool. That was fine with me. I had a lovely time reading, and writing letters.

The next day was bright and sunny, but there was a stiff breeze. The channel was much

Family Just Misses Disaster;
Barge Carries Valley Fruit

MISSION CITY BUP.—Emergency freight and passenger facilities were in operation here today following the collapse of a 150-foot span of the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge over the Fraser River Sunday.

A barge, ordered by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, began service from the south shore of the river in an attempt to deliver fruit to canneries at the height of the valley's harvest season. Gagliardi is to confer tonight with Mission City council and board of trade.

The south span of the old railway and motor traffic bridge plunged into the river Sunday morning seconds after a car carrying three adults and four children had crossed. Another automobile had started over the span when it started to shake and the driver backed off hurriedly.

The river's swift current over a long high water period was blamed for the washing away of the foundations under a pier span which supported a link span. Shortly after the pier span plunged into the river, the link span followed. Swift current carried the broken span some

Alleged Gaming King Surrenders

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank Pretula, 38, alleged kingpin gambler wanted in connection with recent outbreaks of violence in four Montreal nightclubs, surrendered to police today.

He had been sought on a police warrant charging him with being in possession of a firearm in a manner dangerous to public safety.

Police said Pretula is known under the alias Frank Jackson and that he will also be charged with assaulting Ned Doberts, described as a social club operator, in a taxi cab near a Peel Street nightclub.

The nightclub outbreaks have been described as a result of a war between rival gambling groups and police have named Pretula as head of one group.

Police also have warrants out for the arrest of Charlie Chase, 24, of Montreal, Canadian middleweight boxing champion, and four other men.

200,000 Acres in Ontario Blackened As Aerial Armada Directs Fight

(CP and BUP Dispatches)
TORONTO (CP).—Massive fires ate into Northern Ontario's sun-baked forests today, so fiercely that the 6,000 men and a 60-plane aerial armada were likened to "terriers chewing away at an elephant."

More than 200,000 acres of timber—pine, balsam, spruce and maple—have been reduced to blackened stumps. At least 154 fires were burning, forty-eight of them out of control.

A lands and forest department spokesman said enough hose was being used against the woodlands fires to stretch from Toronto to Montreal and back, a distance of some 720 miles.

Several areas have been without rain for weeks. Most of the fresh fires were blamed either on lightning or careless smokers.

Forestry officials say the fire menace is without parallel in Ontario history.

One of the worst blazes is knifing unchecked through forestland 50 miles north of Blind River, back in from the rocky shore of Lake Huron. It has covered an area of nearly 65,000 acres.

ON DUTY FOR WEEKS

The firefighters have remained at the front for many days; some for weeks.

Rain is needed but none is in sight. The lands department is thinking of turning to rain-making devices in a fresh bid to douse the flames.

Seeding of clouds with silver iodide to bring about rain, was successful at Baie Comeau, Que., recently.

But rain doesn't always help. Lightning often accompanies the downfall. This means more fires.

China, U.S. to Confer

WASHINGTON (AP).—The United States and Red China will send ambassadors to Geneva next Monday to discuss "repatriation of civilians" who want to return to their own countries and "certain other practical matters now at issue."

The state department said Alexis Johnson, ambassador to Czechoslovakia, would represent the United States. Johnson is to fly to Washington for consultations with State Secretary Dulles before the talks begin.

Press officer Henry Sydam of the state department reported Indian and Burma had arranged for the meeting in backstage discussions with Red China and the United States.

The "major purpose" of the Geneva meeting from the American view, Sydam said, will be to obtain the release of some 51 Americans held in Red China, including 15 American fliers.

The department in a separate announcement emphasized that holding the talks at the ambassadorial level does not in any way "involve diplomatic recognition" of Red China.

Cuthbert First Probe Witness

Police Inquiry Resumes Thursday

VANCOUVER (CP).—The royal commission investigating charges of corruption in Vancouver's police force will resume its hearings Thursday at 11 a.m. after a two-week adjournment.

R. H. Tupper, QC, of Vancouver one-man royal commission said the first witness would be Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert, whose attempted suicide a month ago touched off the commission inquiry. Mr. Tupper indicated he could not forecast what testimony, if any, Cuthbert would be prepared to offer.

(A British United Press report today said Det.-Sgt. Cuthbert cannot be forced to testify at the inquiry and might not say more than to give his name, address, age and length of time in police service.)

The commission adjourned its hearings July 14 to allow the former head of the gambling squad to recover from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Cuthbert was pronounced fit to testify by physicians and psychiatrists early last week.

Two Gunman Caught in Holdup Try

VANCOUVER (CP).—A gunman and his companion were captured by police at 9 a.m. today shortly after a fighting cafeteria employee foiled the bandits' attempt to rob him of $5,000.

The men were conferred in the downtown office of B.C. Telephone Co. where they fled after attacking Henry Pedersen in his car, parked a short distance away in a lane. An alarm was raised by a passing alman, RCAF Cpl. Larry Prevost.

Pedersen, taken to hospital after a beating by one of his attackers, told police he was transporting $5,000 for his employer, the White Lunch.

He said one of the pair told his companion "shoot him" before they fled on foot with police constable Ernest Ingis hot on their heels.

Car-Bus Crash Kills City Man

6 FATAL B.C. MISHAPS; 50 IN EASTERN CANADA

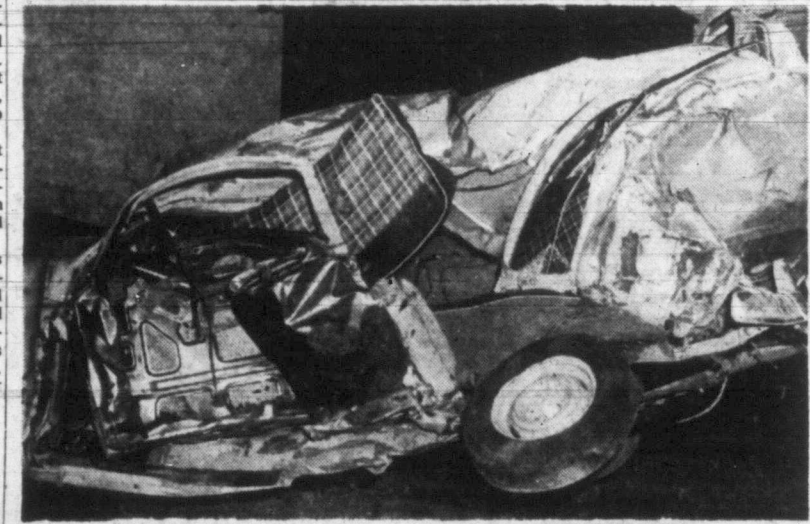

From BUP and CP Dispatches
A 14-year-old boy who hanged himself from his bunk bed—apparently accidentally—was among six persons who died in week-end mishaps in British Columbia.

William David Howard of Burnaby was found hanging by his seven-year-old sister.

Four persons drowned, two of them in the Interior. Eighteen-year-old Harry Maundrell of Vancouver drowned in Timothy Lake in the Cariboo district and an Edmonton man, Joe Griffin, in Lake Windermere.

Wallace G. Anderson, 56, of North Vancouver, was found floating face down in a pool at Lynn Canyon Park in North Vancouver.

Four multiple accidents—three traffic and a fire—took 19 lives this week-end as eastern Canada's count of violent deaths rose to 50. Quebec accounted for 30 of them.

Retired Painter Died Instantly; Wife Badly Hurt

A retired painter was killed instantly and his wife seriously injured when their car was demolished in a car-bus accident at Burnside and the new Island Highway, Sunday at about 2 p.m.

Victim was Abraham Rosenthal, about 67, of The Radnor Apartments, 1811 Oak Bay. Mrs. Ida Rosenthal, 63, is in "satisfactory" condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She suffered shock, chest injuries and possible internal injuries in the grinding crash. Inquest into the death of Mr. Rosenthal will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at McCall Bros. funeral home.

SEVENTH THIS YEAR

His death was the seventh traffic fatality recorded in Greater Victoria area this year and the third on the new highway outlet.

Driver of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. "Islander" bus was Wilfred Cowan, 2677 Blanshard.

Saanich police said Mr. Rosenthal was killed.

B.C. Union Workers Uphold Pay Bargain, Return $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP).—Working a vote on contract terms which were approved by the workers.

Radford said the upholstery workers have now turned down a five-cent hourly wage boost, which they accepted previously, because the union was not sanctioned by the ballot.

Though the vote on the five-cent increase was taken in only four firms, the hike was made applicable to four others and was retroactive to May 1.

Meanwhile, the union has asked for a government-supervised strike vote.

REPORT ON RUSSIA TODAY

By RETA MYERS

Clock With Dropping Pearls Marks Tour of Art Treasures

The Soviet Union has two treasured leftovers from the Czarist regime. The Kremlin, with its billions of dollars worth of fantastic treasures from the Imperial reign, and the Ballet in which Russia reached the pinnacle of the arts.

I saw both of them in one day of my Russian visit.

I didn't plan it that way, but it is a good thing to do because for one day you forget the Communist world, and turn back the clock, to loiter in Imperialist Russia.

When I was a guest of Prince Dimitri in London on my way to U.S.S.R., he asked me to write and tell him what had happened to his country. Son of Grand Duchess Xenia, nee of Czar Nicholas II, he is the last of the ill-fated Roman-offs whose reign ended in a bloody orgy and death for most of the family in 1917. Dimitri must then have been 16, old enough to have enjoyed those last fabulous days in the most elaborate court in Europe. I have quite a report for him.

The news last Thursday carried an item that restrictions of entry to the heavily guarded Kremlin, now seat of the Soviet government, have been eased. But on June 30 when we visited this fortress (this is the translation of Kremlin) the public were still milling around outside. Only privileged foreigners and working people on excursions appeared allowed to roam through the buildings, and then only accompanied by a Kremlin guide. The count is running about 3,000 a day and last year, the first time it was opened to the public, half a million people passed through its gates.

Earlier that morning I had been outside the Kremlin walls, taking pictures of the glittering gold onion-like towers from in front of the British Embassy. It was here I had the first encounter with the "workers," mostly women who were repairing the road in front of the embassy! Far from running away from me, they chatted excitedly making known the fact that they wanted their pictures taken.

In all contacts with the Russian people, I found them child-like in their curiosity and interest, and most unselfconscious in their contacts with us. They seemed to make friends, and I am certain that the edict had gone out to all the people that all foreigners were not state enemies.

The Kremlin, from the city side, is a disappointment. Its round red brick corner towers are the only break in the fortress-like yellow walls. Each tower is now tipped with a gold and ruby (synthetic) star, placed

Thatcher Annuity Plan Defeated

OTTAWA (CP).—A former Socialist's demand for an end to government "subsidization" of federal annuities suffered a 56-0 shut-out today in the Commons.

All parties opposed a proposal by Ross Thatcher (Ind., Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) to reduce to $1 a sum of $1,015,522 to be spent on administration of the low-cost annuities in the 1955-56 fiscal year.

Overdue Plane Safe at Princeton

VANCOUVER (BUP).—A small private plane reported overdue set down safely today near Princeton, B.C., the air force reported.

The plane had been linked with reports of a possible crash on Mount Hollyburn, on Vancouver's North Shore.

Three boys told the West Vancouver police department they saw an explosion and fire which could have been a plane crash. The air force sent an Otter and Canso out to search the area but no definite clues were turned up.

When the private plane—a Cessna carrying two men—was reported overdue it was feared it may have crashed on Mount Hollyburn. However, the plane had landed safely at Princeton on a flight from Castlegar, B.C., to Langley, the air force learned.

Several areas have been without rain for weeks. Most of the fresh fires were blamed either on lightning or careless smokers.

Forestry officials say the fire menace is without parallel in Ontario history.

One of the worst blazes is knifing unchecked through forestland 50 miles north of Blind River, back in from the rocky shore of Lake Huron. It has covered an area of nearly 65,000 acres.

ON DUTY FOR WEEKS

The firefighters have remained at the front for many days; some for weeks.

Rain is needed but none is in sight. The lands department is thinking of turning to rain-making devices in a fresh bid to douse the flames.

Seeding of clouds with silver iodide to bring about rain, was successful at Baie Comeau, Que., recently.

But rain doesn't always help. Lightning often accompanies the downfall. This means more fires.

No Secret Deals Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP).—President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles reported to congressional leaders on the Big Four conference today and declared no secret agreements were made at Geneva.

Congressional leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties attended the 90-minute briefing session.

Sam Rayburn (Dem.-Tex.), Speaker of the House of Representatives, and William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.), Senate Republican leader, afterward quoted Eisenhower as saying he gave "no secret agreements" of any kind at the conference.

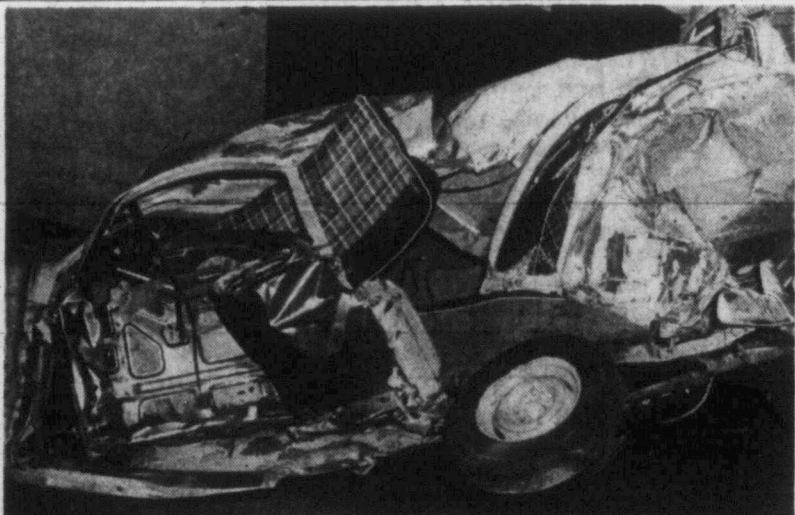

Knowland added: "The situation growing out of the conference is hopeful but the problems ahead are not discounted."

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, said the president told congressional leaders he is confident future negotiations with the Russians will proceed in a "wholly different atmosphere" than they have in the past.

However, Eisenhower told congressional members he does not believe the Russians will accept his proposal for an exchange of military blueprints and free air inspection rights between the U.S. and Soviet Union. (See Also Page 3.)

REPORT ON RUSSIA TODAY

Clock With Dropping Pearls Marks Tour of Art Treasures

The Soviet Union has two treasured leftovers from the Czarist regime. The Kremlin, with its billions of dollars worth of fantastic treasures from the Imperial reign, and the Ballet in which Russia reached the pinnacle of the arts. I saw both of them in one day of my Russian visit.

I didn't plan it that way, but it is a good thing to do because for one day you forget the Communist world and turn back the clock, to loiter in Imperialist Russia.

When I was a guest of Prince Dimitri in London on my way to U.S.S.R., he asked me to write and tell him what had happened to his country. Son of Grand Duchess Xenia, nephew of Czar Nicholas II, he is the last of the ill-fated Roman-offs whose reign ended in a bloody orgy and death for most of the family in 1917. Dimitri must have been 16, old enough to have enjoyed those last fabulous days in the most elaborate court in Europe. I have quite a report for him.

The news last Thursday carried an item that restrictions of entry to the heavily guarded Kremlin, now seat of the Soviet government, have been eased. But on June 30 when we visited this fortress (this is the translation of Kremlin) the public were still milling around outside. Only privileged foreigners and working people on excursions appeared allowed to roam through the buildings, and then only accompanied by a Kremlin guide.

The count is running about 3,000 a day and last year, the first time it was opened to the public, half a million people passed through its gates.

Earlier that morning I had been outside the Kremlin walls, taking pictures of the glittering gold onion-like towers from in front of the British Embassy. It was here I had the first encounter with the "workers," mostly women who were repairing the road in front of the embassy. Far from running away from me, they chatted excitedly making known the fact that they wanted their pictures taken.

In all contacts with the Russian people, I found them child-like in their curiosity and interest, and most unselfconscious in their contacts with us. They seemed to make friends, and I am certain that the edict had gone out to all the people that all foreigners were not state enemies.

The Kremlin, from the city side, is a disappointment. Its round red brick corner towers are the only break in the fortress-like yellow walls. Each tower is now tipped with a gold and ruby (synthetic) star, placed
